All our care for your baby's skin

with milk protein

Because your baby requires especially gentle care.

Your baby is unique. And so is your baby's skin. It is delicate and sensitive – and therefore requires especially loving care. Because baby skin is not yet fully mature; the protective acid mantle is only just developing little by little.

- We only use active ingredients that are specially tailored to your baby's skin.
- Natural milk protein is the central ingredient in sanosan and is especially nourishing for the skin.
- Precious substances like organic olive oil and organic olive extract complement our formulations.
- More than 90 % of the ingredients are of natural origin; the formulations are biodegradable.
- Safety first: all products are clinically tested and free from harmful ingredients.

Did you know?

The word 'sanus' comes from Latin and means 'healthy' – simply sanosan!

Baby's skin – different from adult skin

Your baby's skin is something very special because its range of functions is not yet fully developed. With the right care, you can support the development of your baby's skin.

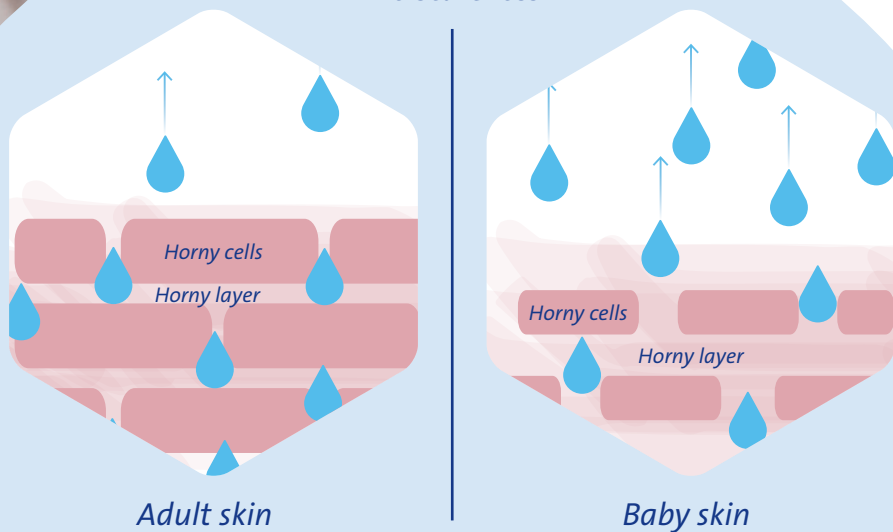

Thinner horny layer

- The protective horny layer in baby skin is approx. 20 % thinner than in adult skin. Furthermore, the gaps between the horny cells are larger.
- Baby skin loses moisture rapidly.

Fewer active sebaceous glands

- Your baby's sebaceous glands are not yet as active – they produce fewer lipids; the protective acid mantle still needs to develop fully.
- Baby skin is drier and more sensitive.

A comparison of moisture loss

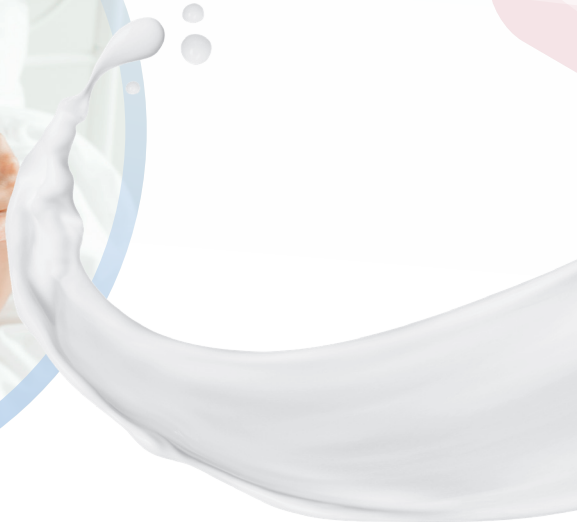

Because of the thinner skin layer and greater distances between the so-called horny cells, baby skin quickly loses moisture.

Milk protein – the best from milk for healthy baby skin

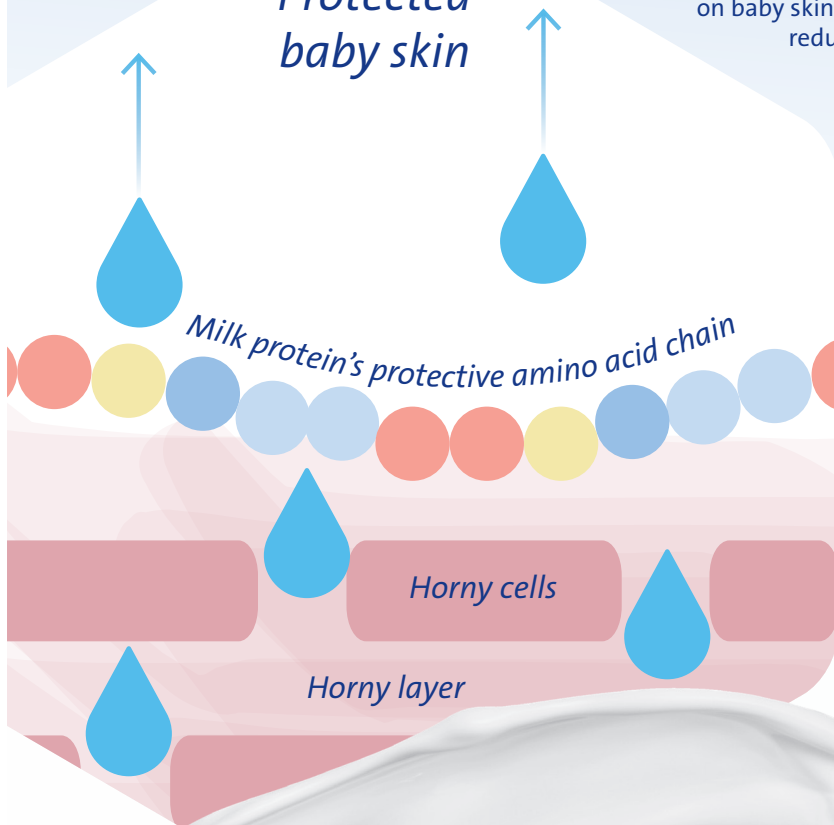

Breast milk is the best thing for your baby – and this is true both for nutrition and skincare. Midwives often recommend a splash of breast milk in the bathwater for mild cleansing. We take advantage of the milk's healing effect: our products contain precious milk protein.

Protected baby skin

Like a soft shell for baby's skin: the amino acid chain in milk protein forms a protective layer on baby skin; this considerably reduces moisture loss.

Did you know?

Up to 200 amino acids are linked in milk protein to form a long chain.

Milk protein – nature's little miracle with a big impact

Milk protein ensures that even washing your baby is more gentle.

Cleansing products contain active washing substances. But even the mildest washing substances can attack the protective film on a baby's skin and upset its balance.

The milk protein in sanosan protects against this.

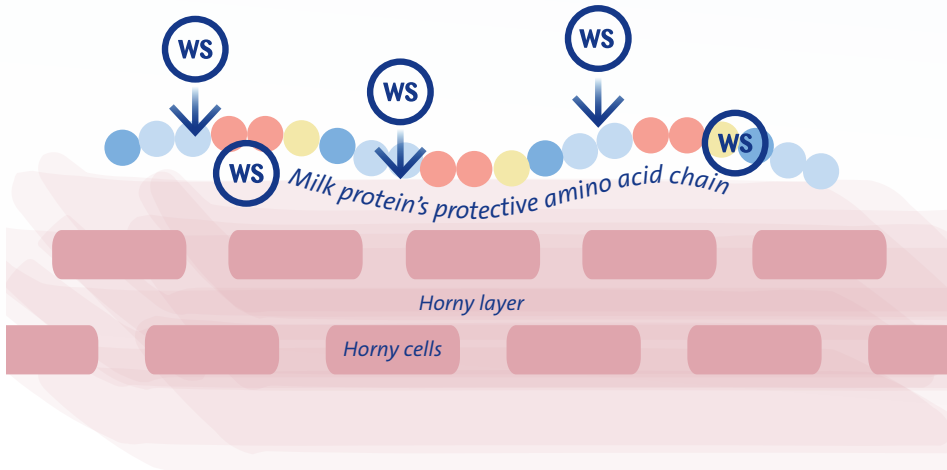

Milk protein – for loving baby care

- It acts like a protective layer on the skin and thereby helps to protect it from environmental influences.
- It supports the skin's natural moisture retention factors and thus saves it from drying out.
- It helps with the development of a natural skin protection barrier and keeps the skin soft and supple.

WS active washing substances

The active washing substances therefore cleanse baby's skin more gently.

sanosan – the safe decision for you and your baby

For sanosan, product safety and quality have the highest priority. We develop our formulas in our own research-and-development laboratories in Hüffenhardt, near Heidelberg in South-West Germany.

‘In research and development at sanosan, we work on the best products for sensitive baby skin – hand in hand with dermatologists, of course.’

Dr. Klaus Hempel
HEAD OF RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Safety that creates trust

All sanosan baby care products are clinically tested by an independent dermatological institute for their good skin compatibility. They are free from parabens, silicones, paraffin oil, SLS/SLES and phenoxyethanol.

 MADE IN GERMANY

Quality that inspires

In quality assurance, raw ingredients and products are examined in accordance with the highest German quality standards. The focus is on testing the quality, purity and stability. Each year, independent institutes certify the quality of sanosan products at the highest level.

'Outstanding formulations and excellent quality assurance belong together – from the raw ingredient to the finished sanosan product.'
